

Meyers smashed one like a bullet toward third that struck Gardner on the side of the head and knocked him out. Herzog scored on the hit, and in a minute Gardner was back on the job. Fletcher took one strike and then lifted an easy fly to Hooper in right. Mathewson was given a great cheer as he came to the bat, but the best he could do was to force out Meyers on a grounder that Yerkes threw to Wagner. ONE RUN, TWO HITS.

Herzog threw out Carrigan. A fine stop and throw by Doyle got Collins in. Hooper smashed a double to right. Yerkes after getting himself in the two-and-three hole shot an easy grounder to Becker and retired the side. NO RUNS, ONE HIT.

THIRD INNING.

After taking one strike, Snodgrass took a shot at the next one and drove a long fly to Hooper. Doyle put himself in a hole by taking two strikes, then lifted an easy foul fly to Gardner. The left-hand pitcher was evidently worrying Larry. Becker threw to first best hit by W. Hall. NO RUNS. Merkle made a marvellous stop of Speaker's hot shot past first and then by a long slide beat him to the base. This was the prettiest play of the game and Merkle was loudly cheered by the Boston fans. Lewis lifted a high fly to the outfield. Fletcher took a hard ball and pitched and tapped an easy grounder that Doyle threw to Merkle. NO RUNS, NO HITS.

FOURTH INNING.

Murray fouled off two curves for Collins and then smashed a straight one to the center field fence for three bases. The New York rooters got jubilant, but there was gloom when Merkle came up and lifted an easy foul fly to Gardner. Herzog played the waiting game until there were two balls and two strikes on him. The next one was a slow ball. Herzog fouled off the left field fence and then came within six inches of being a two-bagger. He then whipped a long fly to Speaker, and Murray scored on the catch. Meyers waited for one over the middle and slammed it through Wagner like a shot for a long single. Fletcher finally retired the side on a long liner to Hooper. The Giants were playing a hard up-hill game and were hitting the ball on the nose every chance. ONE RUN, TWO HITS.

Matty had Stahl's number on his second time at bat and struck out. He then pitched a ball to Murray, who tried to hit. Fletcher ran down the line of left field for Carrigan's grounder that had got past Herzog and shot it to Merkle for one of the prettiest plays of the game. NO RUNS, NO HITS.

FIFTH INNING.

Matty was out on a strike, but Carrigan dropped the last one out. He then pitched to first. Hooper was struck out. Doyle swung on the first and lifted an easy fly to Lewis. NO RUNS, NO HITS.

Collins was an easy victim for Matty and struck out on three curves balls. Hooper caught Matty napping and slammed a slow one into center for a double. Just at this minute the clouds broke through the clouds and right field was flooded with sunshine. This made it necessary for Snodgrass and Murray to change fleeces. Snodgrass wore a blue and Snodgrass wore a blue. Merkle made a perfect throw, but Fletcher after touching his man dropped the ball and was charged with an error. This cost a run as Yerkes pitched out to third. ONE RUN, TWO HITS.

SIXTH INNING.

Becker was out on an easy grounder to Yerkes. Murray caught fast on squarely on the nose, and smashed it into center for his second hit. Merkle waited until he was in the two-three hole and then lined a drive to Speaker that went like a shot. Fletcher tried to steal second on the second ball pitched, but Carrigan's throw to Wagner was as true as a rifle shot and Jack was out by five feet. NO RUNS, ONE HIT.

Lewis shot a fast one at Fletcher, which was fumbled momentarily, giving him a life at first. The play was so close that the ball was called a hit. Gardner was out on a sacrifice. Matty to Merkle, Lewis going to second. This was the first time either team had attempted the old style of fly in this game. Stahl, who was out, flew to first, but Merkle, who was sure, dropped the ball. Stahl then rolled an easy grounder to Matty and was out at first. Wagner took out. Wagner tapped a grounder to Matty and was also easily thrown out at first. NO RUNS, ONE HIT.

SEVENTH INNING.

After waiting until he had Collins in the hole Herzog opened the tenth with a clean drive to right field for his second hit of the game. Meyers got two balls, and then lifted an easy fly to Yerkes. On the first ball pitched to Fletcher Herzog got a flying start and made a clean steal of second, which was the first steal of the series, for the Giants. Fletcher swung wildly and popped a fly to Stahl. This put it up to Mathewson, but the fellow tried to play out the string and struck out. Stahl, ONE HIT.

EIGHTH INNING.

Lewis dropped Snodgrass's fly. Doyle singled to center. Snodgrass took second. Doyle was forced at second when Yerkes took Becker's grounder and threw to Wagner. Snodgrass went to third on the play. Snodgrass scored on Murray's double into the bleachers. Becker taking a hard ball, this was sent from the box and was relieved by Hall. Collins went to the bench in tears.

NINTH INNING.

With Becker's third and Murray on second, with Herzog at the bat, with only one out, the New York fans kept up a continual cheering. Merkle sent up a high foul to Carrigan. Carrigan dropped Herzog's ball after a hard run. It was not an error. Becker and Murray scored on Herzog's two bager. Wagner took Meyers' grounder and threw him out at first. THREE RUNS, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR.

TENTH INNING.

Merkle got a three base hit. Wagner threw out Herzog at first. Meyers was purposely passed to first. McCormick batted for Fletcher. Shaffer ran for Meyers. Merkle scored on McCormick's sacrifice fly to Lewis. Shaffer took second on the throw to catch Merkle at the plate. Mathewson fled out to Yerkes. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR.

ELEVENTH INNING.

Bedient went into the box. Bedient hit Snodgrass on the arm and the batter took his base. Doyle struck out. It was growing dark and hard to follow the ball. Snodgrass was out. Doyle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

TWELFTH INNING.

Shaffer took Wagner's grounder and threw him out at first. Carrigan went to the bench. Merkle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

THIRTEENTH INNING.

Bedient went into the box. Bedient hit Snodgrass on the arm and the batter took his base. Doyle struck out. It was growing dark and hard to follow the ball. Snodgrass was out. Doyle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

FOURTEENTH INNING.

Bedient went into the box. Bedient hit Snodgrass on the arm and the batter took his base. Doyle struck out. It was growing dark and hard to follow the ball. Snodgrass was out. Doyle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

FIFTEENTH INNING.

Bedient went into the box. Bedient hit Snodgrass on the arm and the batter took his base. Doyle struck out. It was growing dark and hard to follow the ball. Snodgrass was out. Doyle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

ROOTERS LEAD BY MAJOR IN BOSTON'S BIG STADIUM

Fans Give Giants a Cheer and Red Sox a Triumphant Welcome After Victory in First Battle For the World's Title.

(Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—Boston turned out over 30,000 baseball fans this afternoon to see the Red Sox do battle with the Giants. As a reward for their victory in the first battle the Boston team marched onto the field to a triumphant welcome. Gov. Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald led in the cheering.

One umpire and two of the Giants players pulled up a trifling lame just as the battle was about to resume. In batting practice yesterday Josh Devore was hit on the right elbow by a pitched ball and the wing is badly swollen, so much so, in fact, that Josh may not be able to play the out-field to-day. He cannot bend his arm without great pain. The other injured Giant is Jack Murray. In sliding to second he fell heavily on his shoulder and the bruise caused him much trouble last night.

The Red Sox also report an injury to Charley Wagner, the star shortstop. While touching out Snodgrass at second his hand was cut by a spike.

UMPIRE RIGLER HURT IN COLLISION WITH MERKLE.

The most unique casualty in the gripping of Umpire Rigler, who was doing outpost duty on the foul lines in the opening game. When the last man was out Rigler started on a run to join the other umpires, when he ran head on into Fred Merkle. Rigler got a terrible scalp wound, and when he finally extricated himself from the fans who were running over the field he found that he had pulled on a "charley horse." He will be in this field to-day just the same.

Both managers were considerably annoyed this morning over the fact that none of the athletes were able to go to bed before 2 o'clock. They slept until 11 o'clock, however. Still, it interfered with their regular sleep, and the leaders are considerably upset as well as sore deep down in their hearts at the railroad company, which gave them a special that was delayed nearly three hours in getting into Boston. There was a wreck ahead.

As time was precious to the many baseball players who have turned actors, the New England towns along the way got an unexpected treat in literature, which was dropped off the train in sheets at every stop.

The delay and the fellow-feeling of misery soon wore away the feelings of rivalry between the Boston and New York players, and they fraternized to get in story telling contests and poker games all the way over. It was evident that each team has a lot of respect for the other.

The call to arms to-day was sounded promptly at 12 o'clock and in uniform the rival players rode to Fenway Park in taxicabs. All the way out they were cheered by the crowds that hung along the streets. There was a terrible hubbub when the two teams passed the great crowds that were lined up in an effort to get into the fifteen thousand seats that are open. It was evidently early in the day that a large proportion of the Boston fans would be disappointed and would have to watch the proceedings via the bulletin boards. Every reserved seat was sold days ago. To accommodate as many as possible, the local managers erected temporary bleachers that will seat ten thousand. This will run the total seating capacity up to 30,000.

CHEERS FOR THE GIANTS, BUT STORM FOR THE RED SOX.

There are no fairer minded fans in catch Gardner at third but failing. Wagner struck out. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR.

NINTH INNING.

Fletcher out, Wagner to Stahl. It was a dazzling play. Wagner took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

TENTH INNING.

Merkle got a three base hit. Wagner threw out Herzog at first. Meyers was purposely passed to first. McCormick batted for Fletcher. Shaffer ran for Meyers. Merkle scored on McCormick's sacrifice fly to Lewis. Shaffer took second on the throw to catch Merkle at the plate. Mathewson fled out to Yerkes. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR.

ELEVENTH INNING.

Bedient went into the box. Bedient hit Snodgrass on the arm and the batter took his base. Doyle struck out. It was growing dark and hard to follow the ball. Snodgrass was out. Doyle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

TWENTY-THIRD INNING.

Bedient went into the box. Bedient hit Snodgrass on the arm and the batter took his base. Doyle struck out. It was growing dark and hard to follow the ball. Snodgrass was out. Doyle took a hard ball and pitched to first. Carrigan to Wagner. NO RUNS.

FEATURES OF GAME AT A GLANCE.

Snodgrass, the first man to face Collins, slammed out a double that would have been a homer but for the ground rules.

Larry Doyle was the first strike-out victim of Ray Collins.

Hooper stole the first base of the series in the first inning, Meyers throwing low to second.

Fletcher's punt of Yerkes' liner in the second half of the first spotted a chance for an easy doubleplay. This left the bases full.

Stahl's long single in this inning scored both Speaker and Lewis and Yerkes had tallied on an infield grounder. This gave the Red Sox a three-run lead.

Herzog got in the longest hit of the series so far, when he lined a triple to center in the second.

Meyers' hit nearly put Gardner out of business, striking him on the head and knocking him flat. Merzog scored on it.

Hooper got his second hit of Matty, in the second half of the second, a double to right.

Merkle's marvellous stop of Speaker's hot shot past first in the third brought out Boston cheers.

Murray, the first Giant up in the fourth, contributed a triple and afterward scored the Giants' second run on Herzog's long fly to Speaker.

Meyers got his second hit of the game in the fourth, a long single through Wagner.

Fletcher made a pretty put-out when he got Carrigan's grounder past Herzog, on the run, and nailed the Boston catcher at Merkle's bag.

Collins struck out Matty and Snodgrass in succession in the fifth.

Hooper singled in the fifth. To this stage he was the star of the game, with three hits and two stolen bases. He never failed to make a hit.

Fletcher made his second error when he dropped Meyers' throw to catch Hooper stealing in the fifth. This cost a run, as Yerkes tripped right afterward.

Yerkes' triple made the sixth hit off Matty up to this stage.

Murray got his second hit in the sixth, but his attempt to steal, the first made by the Giants, was spoiled by Carrigan's perfect throw to Wagner.

Lewis' single hit Matty, which Fletcher momentarily fumbled, registered the seventh hit off Matty up to the second half of the seventh.

After making his second hit of the game in the seventh, Herzog made a clean steal of second, the first of the series for the Giants.

Murray registered his third hit of the game in the eighth. His record up to this time was a triple, a single and a double.

Collins was taken out in the eighth inning, after Murray's hit scored Snodgrass and Hall was sent in to pitch for the Red Sox.

Herzog was the hero of the Giant routers in the eighth when his double scored both Becker and Murray, and put the Giants one run in front.

Lewis tied the score in the eighth, brought by Gardner's vicious hit.

Snodgrass, "passed" Snodgrass and Doyle in the ninth.

Becker also drew a base on balls, the third in a row.

Merkle gave Giant routers hope with a triple starting the tenth.

Speaker's home run in the tenth tied up the game for the second time.

Bedient went in to pitch for the Red Sox in the eleventh inning.

West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, drew out the twenty-eighth peremptory challenge of the defense.

Rose, "Sam" Schepps and the four gunmen indicted with Becker, which brought from the West Side Court prison to an anteroom adjoining the trial room. They were in charge of a heavy guard. Rose and Schepps were kept apart from "Gyp the Hood" and his pals.

MINTYRE SAID THE JUDGE WAS GETTING ANGRY.

While the one hundred and thirty-five veniremen was being examined Mr. McIntyre remarked (not for the ears of the Court) that Justice Goff was in a wretched frame of mind because of the defense's tactics in using up all their peremptory challenges. One o'clock came and no recess was declared. Two days more discussed their state of deafness at length and were dismissed.

Mr. McIntyre used his twenty-ninth peremptory challenge against Jerome H. Allen, an architect of No. 345 Fifth avenue, the first venireman called this afternoon.

"That leaves six," whispered McIntyre to his associate, Mr. Hart, "and we can get two of them."

But the next man up was accepted and sworn in, filling the seat vacated by Juror Wake. He is Charles Rauehuss, a real estate broker, of No. 183 West One Hundred and Fifty-third street. He is a fair, blue-eyed man about forty years old and the baldest juror so far accepted.

By a singular coincidence several other veniremen were dismissed in one and the same order. Juror Wake, two-eyed and the majority bearded. "The darker the taleman," observed Mr. McIntyre, "the stronger his opinion."

That's the reason we are plugging for a fair hall, of the blue-eyed variety."

JUSTICE GOFF FIRES BROADSIDE AT TALESMEN.

Vehemently expressed bias, as talemen succeeded taleman, excused for cause, began to get on Justice Goff's nerves and he fired a broadside at talemen in general who "swore themselves out of court."

William D. Bates of No. 133 West Ninety-eighth street had responded to Mr. Whitman that his opinions would prove a serious hamper. As he finished speaking the Court said to the prosecutor:

Mr. Whitman this is the twenty-seventh man to-day who has sworn himself out of court and jury duty. Their disqualifying opinions are an indication to the Court that you cannot depend on their honesty."

This hot shot didn't dim the smile of talemen, who hopped down jauntily from the stand and went on his way.

The defense exhausted its twenty-fifth peremptory challenge to get rid of Melbon Weil, secretary of a manufacturing concern at No. 325 West One Hundred and Third street. This left only four more of Becker's arbitrary challenges. Mr. Whitman had used eighteen of the State's thirty challenges.

Joseph A. Nagan of No. 48 St. Nicholas avenue, Robert J. Hanse, electrical engineer, of No. 32 Morandale avenue, was likewise excused for cause. Prejudice biased the mind of Arthur J. Brown, No. 123 Wyckoff avenue, the Bronx. There came an acquaintance of the deceased Herman Rosenthal, Benjamin Moritz, wholesale grocer, of No. 119 West One Hundred and Forty-fourth street. Two of them were immediately accepted.

The one hundred and twenty-second member of the panel, Leopold Kreamer of No. 23 West One Hundred and Park street, had friends in the District Attorney's office and the strongest sort of an opinion.

FRIEND OF ROSE NOT WANTED ON THE JURY.

The next venireman was Mr. M. Muerdman, a friend of "Jack" Rose and Harry Pollock. He is Edward West of No. 36 Claremont avenue. He was excused for actual bias.

The State called preemptorily Thomas F. Koenig, insurance man, of No. 311 West Ninety-seventh street after Mr. McIntyre had examined him at length and Becker had signified his approval. He was the sixteenth taleman called to-day. Auckland B. Corbrey of No. 79 Riverside Drive was also challenged.

Becker's twenty-seventh peremptory challenge disposed of Gies M. Cree of No. 145 Waterloo street, the Bronx.

A decided opinion excused John T. Saturday and beat his wife for talking to neighbors over the back fence. He beat the woman later in the day, the police say, till she was unconscious.

Then he called up the City Hospital on the telephone, asking for an ambulance, and also notified the police, alleging that his wife was drunk. The woman was taken to the hospital, where she died to-day. Enright was making arrangements for the funeral when he was arrested.

Two men were arrested on the street, one of them being a friend of the late Herman Rosenthal. They were taken to the City Hospital on the telephone, asking for an ambulance, and also notified the police, alleging that his wife was drunk. The woman was taken to the hospital, where she died to-day. Enright was making arrangements for the funeral when he was arrested.

KING NICHOLAS ON FIRING LINE IN WAR WITH TURKS

Ruler of Montenegro, With Son, Joins His Troops in Hot Fighting on Frontier.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—Fierce fighting and hurried movements of troops were reported in progress to-day all along the Turkish-Montenegrin, Turkish-Bulgarian and Turkish-Serbian frontiers. Reports were current that the Turks have wiped out one detachment of Montenegrins who invaded their territory. A stronger force was said to be making forced marches toward Scutari, in Albania, to aid the Albanian rebels who are besieging Esad Pasha there.

The fight between the Turks and Montenegrins at Herana was still in progress when the latest advices were received. At Kalava the Turks repulsed the Montenegrins. King Nicholas of Montenegro is at the front in person, but it is thought he will direct operations from the Montenegrin side, without actually crossing the frontier.

His second son, Prince Mirko, who is with him, may join one of the invading forces.

SALONIKI, Turkey, Oct. 9.—Fighting continues between the Turkish and Montenegrin forces on the Montenegrin frontier. Esad Pasha, the Turkish commander of the force marching to the relief of Scutari, has passed the river Boyana without encountering any opposition. The Albanians in the frontier districts have promised to restrain the Montenegrins from crossing the frontier without their Turkish help.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Confirmation of the rupture of diplomatic relations with Turkey by both Bulgaria and Serbia has been received in Paris, according to a news agency despatch from that city. A Bulgarian force is reported to have crossed the Turkish frontier and King Ferdinand is said to be hurrying southward to take command of the allied Balkan troops.

The first encounter between Serbian and Turkish troops is reported to have occurred in the Javir district of the Sanjak of Novi-Pazar, according to a news agency despatch from Belgrade. The Serbian Premier declared to-day that the action of the Powers had been taken too late.

If Serbia and Bulgaria have not already declared war on Turkey as reported from Paris it is believed everywhere that they are on the point of joining their mobilized armies to that of Montenegro whose troops are said to be generally engaged with the Turks along the frontier. Should the two Balkan nations decide to appeal to arms about half a million soldiers of the Balkan States who have been concentrating for the past week will be ready to oppose the Turkish army. The members of the Ottoman troops in European Turkey have been variously estimated and are understood to total several hundreds of thousands.
